

FYI

If you are new to this website, you may want to read the other information this site provides before tackling this update.

In this update, you have the Utah B system and two examples showing how the adjustments work in that system.

More updates will come in the future.